In the spirit of the ASU Charter, inclusive excellence is a commitment to building communities that embody diversity and ensure all members share in the college experience. This includes fostering an environment that is accessible, equitable, and inclusive for all students, regardless of their backgrounds or abilities.

In this week's "Moments of Excellence," we highlight a student's journey to becoming a software engineer, and a team of students working to improve accessibility in the classroom.

In addition to the undergraduate and graduate commencements, ASU hosted seven special-interest convocations this past week. These ceremonies honor important parts of students' identities and are a college-specific convocation.

Inclusive Excellence is our commitment to all backgrounds, identities and perspectives, furthering our practice of equity and inclusion. In honor of Asian American and Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander heritage, the university celebrates its rich heritage.

In this email:

- "Moments of Excellence"
- Undergraduate Spotlights
- Bilingual reporting course brings together students from ASU, Mexico to find untold stories of the United States-Mexico border

Read more...